

About Us

Thermographics is the technological leader in the development of innovative color changing communication tools.

Thermographic products are triggered by temperature, and use the unique characteristics of liquid crystal and other thermochromic inks to provide distinctive and premium items.

Thermographics offers assistance with design and production of your premium and promotional products.